Gabriele Baldocci's unique style, visionary programming and versatile artistic personality have garnered him worldwide critical acclaim and a wide following on the world stage.

Described by Jed Distler on Gramophone as a "A pianist of formidable capabilities", Baldocci has given concerts at some of the most distinguished venues worldwide.

This upcoming season, Baldocci will be performing in cities across the world and will see the release of the latest CD of his acclaimed Liszt-Beethoven Complete Symphonies series. His recitals will feature a wide range of music including several world premieres.

A passionate advocate for live classical improvisation, Baldocci's eclectic personality made him develop innovative events where he tastefully breaks boundaries of genres and styles. His latest recording, "Sheer Piano Attack", rapidly became a best-seller after being promoted by the rock band Queen on all their media outlets. His performances are regularly broadcasted on TV and radios internationally

A child prodigy of the piano, he started giving public concerts at the age of nine, and he maintained a successful career since then, winning prizes in numerous piano competitions.

A very active educator, he is a professor at Trinity Laban Conservatoire of Music in London, and he is often invited to give Masterclasses at some of the most important universities and academies worldwide.
